DCJ photos

This is Mattapoisett wharf and surroundings at the height of the hurricane one hour before high tide and shortly before the eye of the storm appeared. The cover, looking straight down the Shipyard Park fence toward Long Wharf, shows boats smashing ashore in the surf. The boat, at right, had been hauled before the storm. Two beached sailboats threaten the bandstand, below, with the broken Wanderer mast flagpole in the foreground. These photos were taken in the force of a wind clocked at over 100 M.P.H. and in this wind it was impossible to stand erect. The spray hit the face with the feel of hail and large objects rocketed by.

Elm survivor of many storms falls at Shipyard Park across Water St. into wires.

.IT RODE OUT THE STORM, DIDN'T IT?

Anyone who considers riding out the storm would do well to consider the photo above. This beautiful craft which came ashore on the square dance area of the wharf has its mooring intact and in perfect condition with all line secure. The large mushroom anchor fast to the hefty chain was no match for the tug of war with Hurricane Bob which ripped it from the harbor mud and hurled everything ashore.

CRESCENT BEACH AFTERMATH

The terrible damage is revealed after the water has subsided at Crescent Beach. The cottage at top has been removed from its foundation and moved one lot back (note the chimney in background) and the front and side walls have been ripped away spilling all of the furnishings and belongings out into the flood. (The shack in the background had been put back on its site.) Another cottage formerly between the two has disappeared entirely. Photo below.. The cottage in the background properly belongs where the bureau now stands in the foreground.

Hurricane "Bob"

SWIFT AND DESTRUCTIVE - DCJ

Sunday, the warning came but it was only an alert and the storm was way down there off Cape Hatteras; there was also a forecast of a cold front that might push the storm off our coast and into the Atlantic. Nevertheless, the boat hauling began at the wharf watched by hundreds of spectators and at Mattapoisett Boatyard in more secluded surroundings. All day Sunday, teams of Brownell blue trailers pulled the pleasure craft and lined many of them up at the top of Shipyard Park and took the rest to safety all over the town, running in relays to the ramp all through the day and all through the night. The Ice Cream Slip, owned by Dana Tripp, never closed that night serving coffee to the hard working crews. That Monday morning the heavy air began to gust ominously. It smelled like hurricane. The boats still in the water pointed the way right out of the harbor into the teeth of the rising wind. The trees began to sing as they bowed to the shrieking gusts. When the Brownell crew quit that morning they had hauled the entire list of boats that had indicated they wanted to come out, totaling more than

The rising wind now howled and the moist air was filled with salt spray as "Bob" entered the harbor right down the mouth of the funnel.

The harbor boats now began to rise and fall away into ever-mounting sea. As the wind screamed, the mast of the Wanderer, now the flagpole centerpiece, began to sway and whip, singing with the strain. "Mudgie" had long since taken down the flag but, no matter, the lines vibrated like violin strings until with a cracking report the top broke off of the antique mast as it thundered to earth just short of the Robert Woods' home, in the rear of Romeo's. That was just the opening round. As spectators looked out into the harbor the spray in the air was flying with such force that it felt like hail. It was only possible to stand in a half crouch and only then behind some shelter. Out in the harbor, the water turned slate grey and white and it was now certain that the moored boats were on the move. The sea began to look like those at Hawaii at the "pipeline" when the surf is really up. The boats, tossed to the crest of these miniature mountains, began to pull their moorings free of the mud with each rise, and they were on the way shoreward with the wind.

One of the first to make landfall came in at the most unfortunate place - the rip rap at the base of Short Wharf just below where the Ice Cream Slip is usually parked. The motorboat began to grind and slam into the rock and soon the agony of defeat was certain as the hull began to rip apart. The seas now were mountainous and little could be seen of any of the wharves. The next arrival was a 35 foot sailboat and it surfed in on a gigantic comber that lifted it high over the surface of the wharf and deposited it almost as gently as a huge hand on the blacktop surface. That boat began to progress over the square dance area toward the harbormaster's building. The bandstand stood firm in all of this fury in mute testimony to Bruce Rocha's skill and all of the Lions' Club members who assisted him in its construction. It just did not seem possible that the formidable wind resistance of that roof atop those slender columns could take the force of that 100+ MPH wind.

Another sailboat came riding in on a foaming mountain, also deposited carefully on the square dance surface. Sections of a motorboat now began to ride ashore and progress through the split rail fence of Shipyard Park leaving twin engines behind. At that time a great threat to the bandstand arrived riding the breakers in front of the Maurice Downey house. It came tearing down in a direct line to the bandstand like a bowling ball to the pocket. The slim tree to the west of the bandstand was nearly bent to the ground, snagged the mast and the light standard to the opposite side caught the keel. There it hovered like an angel of doom as the little tree held and the light pole assisted. It never tore loose of that fortunate grasp. Then like a sailor gone berserk, a sailboat came in with jib unfurled.

The roller jib had been plucked loose by the irresistable fingers of the storm and once deployed, the jib became a runaway engine. The boat tore in full force to the west of the Downey breakwater. That same breakwater attracted another boat which slammed ashore just at the edge of Shipyard Park at the stonewall. As the keel smashed through the concrete breakwater, the bow scored a hit on the fieldstone wall and the sea plucked up the stones and threw them all over that side of the park. The sound and the fury of the onslaught was now overwhelming. At 3 p.m., approximately one hour before high tide the surge began. As large pieces of debris rose into the air and cartwheeled crazily off into the air, the flood began to rise up around the bandstand toward the base of the flagpole and still the team held - little tree and light standard held the "bowling ball" aimed right for the bandstand. The newly installed benches, donated by the Mattapoisett Woman's Club, began to sink into the flood but escaped serious damage.

The smell of diesel oil and gasoline saturated the air as the beached boats had their tanks emptied and the spray belted and hurt like sharp nails. Then, as the surge crested, this swift "Bob" stared right down with a light blue sky of an eye and an eerie calm quieted the scene. The wind reversed itself and the seas began to take shelter behind the Mattapoisett Neck so the backlash was an anticlimax.

In the wake of the storm, Angelica Point became a sandbar again. Only 4 cottages remained standing, 3 on stilts and 1 built with solid concrete sides with breakaway front and back walls. Sand piled 5 feet deep covers the road. There is extensive damage at all the beach areas. Crescent Beach has less loss than the '38 hurricane principally because this storm went through with such speed and the fact that summer homes have more space around them. Many were knocked from foundations and gutted by the domino syndrome, the house on the beach steaming in and striking the one in back, then that one tearing into a third. Some new high and substantial homes built on stilts survived intact as did many with breakaway front and back walls.

The storm did terrible damage to the trees and as they fell they took power lines out and toppled poles. Wires snaked in the streets.

Usually after a hurricane, a magnificent blue and sunny day exposes all the damage. Not so with "Bob". The gloom and wet fog settled down over the saturated earth. The nights became still and dark as people dug into the candle drawer and rediscovered the danger of the old time can opener. Food melted in the freezer, sprouted strange fungi in the warming refrigerator, and everybody sat around until 8:30 before considering bed. Everyone automatically flicked light switches to no avail, stumbling along feeling the wall, wondering where the flashlight was put down last. We are simply out of sync with the last century. Those were tough resourceful people who were our great-grandparents and we sure know it now. The whine of the chainsaw, the chipper's roar and the occasional generator's din are the only reminders that modern day is here and now.

By far the greatest damage and loss is invisible. When salt water floods homes, as many were flooded, nothing shows but everything - furniture, appliances, rugs, the works - suddenly becomes sodden junk stinking of oil and sewage, unworkable and mostly unreclaimable. No two people experience the same dramatic loss but all who are flooded experience the greatest devastation.

In the aftermath all town departments performed so very well. It simply was inconceivable that so much mess could start to seem fairly normal in 4 days. Trees were cut loose from the power lines so that crews working night and day could restore power. Branches and leaves carpeting every inch of the streets and yards started to disappear as homeowners cleaned up and the highway department worked steadily with the chipper.

ANGELICA POINT SWEPT NEARLY CLEAN

The summer colony at Angelica is decimated with only 4 or 5 dwellings surviving the fury of Bob. All of the cottages still standing were built on stilts or with solid side walls with breakaway front and backs. It is almost difficult to bring back to memory all of the homes that lined the beach. It is hard to picture how they all fit because the stretch now seems to have shrunk. Two weeks ago this was a happy summer colony and now a length of empty sandbar.

Where else but in Mattapoisett would you find selectmen out cleaning up the foliage debris from around the Town Hall? Selectmen John DeCosta and Paul Lambalot were doing just that, as were most homeowners in town, cleaning their yards and streets. This effort has transformed the appearance of the town in four short days and has been so encouraged by the town's offer to pick up branches and fallen foliage. Please put large branches with heavy ends out to make it easier for the highway crews to lift. The landfill will be open 8AM to dark to accept this sort of debris and there is a place set aside for it. The town plans to hire a gigantic chipper to accept large trunks of trees. The landfill is accepting stumps from Mattapoisett storm damage but must know in advance how many and the site of origin. Town highway crews for a week were working 'round the clock picking up branches, but now will resume regular hours. However, they will pick up your tree debris as soon as they can. The town has applied for DPW permission to burn the many tons of tree accumulation.

Selectmen John DeCosta and Paul Lambâlot have been at the Town Hall all during the week having taken time off from their employment. Mr. DeCosta expresses great pride in all of the people of the town who have called to offer assistance and have so willingly pitched in to help. The Red Cross, Mattapoisett Inn, Shipyard Galley, Mattapoisett Take-out and others have donated food to feed the Electric crews at the Fire Station. Individuals have also contributed food which the firemen and auxiliary have served.

Boat owners with boats on marshes will be assisted by a committee composed of the Harbormaster, Shellfish Warden and Conservation Committee and should apply to them for advice and assistance. Looting has been minimal. The National Guard, now on duty, has caught two as of this printing.

Thanks to All Departments for Cooperation During/After HURRICANE "BOB" DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT $22 MILLION MATTAPOISETT SELECTMEN'S MEETING AUGUST 20, 1991-by VIRGINIA MORGAN

It was business as usual on the town wharf Tuesday when Brownell Boat Works was launching boats again as well as hauling away the battered boats that washed ashore during Hurricane "Bob".

At the Tuesday selectmen's meeting, a round table-type information gathering displayed cooperation of all town departments. Termed an emergency department head meeting by Selectmen Chairman John N. DeCosta to discuss the clean-up of the town in the aftermath of the hurricane, said "we've only heard good comments from townspeople".

Chairman DeCosta said "We should be proud of the town employees; we thank them all and the extra crews that have been hired to help." Selectman Paul E. Lambalot said the board is very appreciative of everything that has been done, but there is more coming up. "I saw men working in the pouring rain late in the evening; we appreciate that." Selectman Daniel O. Mahoney said, jokingly, "I had thought of bringing some toothpicks to keep Brian Nunes' eyes open after the long hours he spent on Water Street directing traffic at the wharf. Everyone knows his job and it gets done; we are grateful", he added.

Chairman DeCosta said the public should be patient and the highway department crew will take the small limbs along the sidewalk to chip. "We only have a minimum budget to work with." He added that the board has been trying to contact our legislators, with no luck so far, for federal aid. "If the money is out there we will try to get it."

(On Friday, August 23rd, Mr. DeCosta said State Representative John Bradford (R-Rochester) had been in the office to get a report and to offer any help he could. People from FEMA, Federal Emergency Management Agency, which supervises flood plain insurance, viewed the shore damage to property accompanied by Building Inspector Andrew Bobola. Also, the selectmen's office has prepared a 16-page report on damage for the state for federal aid. "We had to do it on short notice, and we estimated the damage at $22. million. Considering the damage of at least a million to the wharves, it may go higher.")

REPORTS WERE MADE BY:

Building Inspector Andrew J. Bobola. As of Thursday, August 22nd, "we estimate 67 homes are damaged; 55 are not salvagable; 12 possibly salvagable." On Cove Street, Angelica Beach at Strawberry Point, of the 37 existing homes, seven remain, with two condemned. The hardest hit was Angelica Beach, followed by Pico Beach, Crescent Beach, Howard Beach and Harbor Beach. The figures are not final as Mattapoisett Shores has not been included, Mr. Bobola said.

In his Tuesday's report, Mr. Bobola said he was surveying the damage. He urged homeowners not to move any structure until the insurance company has viewed the damage and given its verbal approval. The building department has to view each building to give its approval to move a structure. At that time he gave the figure of 27 homes destroyed, 25 condemnable, figures not including Marshmere and Antassawamock.

The inspector planned a question and answer meeting at town hall on Saturday, August 24th, to stop rumors that homeowners cannot rebuild.

Ronald Scott, chairman of the Conservation Commission, said his department will cooperate with the building inspector to circumvent rules to get these things done as soon as possible.

Police Chief James F. Moran said there has been five cases of bee bites, five ambulance runs. Two of the cases were persons allergic to bee stings, the others were taken as a precautionary measure.

The chief explained the bees, or yellow jackets, have had their hives disturbed and they are all over town.

The only serious medical problem was a 72-year old woman who was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage on Tuesday, the day after the hurricane, when she and her niece went to view the loss of her home on An-

Tree damage throughout the town is very extensive and trees as they came down caused terrific damage to the power and telephone lines. Even on Friday, there was no power in the Tinkhamtown area and other forested sections of Mattapoisett. The proud owner of the brand new car on Old Marion road (above) could very well be forgiven for a good cry after this massive tree limb crushed the roof of the beautiful car. In the photo below, two trees on Barstow St. will shade no more for they are history-narrowly missing the Pelson home.

gelica Beach. The emergency vehicle could not drive in the sand to pick up the lady; however, Mr. Bobola drove his four-wheel truck in and brought her out to the ambulance. Millie O'Brien, a summer resident, was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where she died on Wednesday.

The chief reported the officers have been doing a great job keeping the streets open and traffic flowing. "We've had help from the state police and from the National Guard coming in on every shift. They are doing a terrific job keeping unauthorized persons from the damaged beach areas to prevent looting. In fact, they are doing such a good job they wouldn't allow my son to get home by Prospect Road."

Albert Sylvia of the emergency team with the fire department, said he was disappointed at seeing the amount of traffic in the center of town. He noted that in Marion the center was completely blocked off. "If Marion can

Civil Defense Director William Simpson said everything has meshed together. "I can't thank people enough for their help during my first year as director, and what a first year. The shelter at the high school handled over 200 people."

Highway Surveyor Wesley N. Bowman said "We're helping the tree department keeping roads open, then clean up the streets. The equipment is working good." He noted the tree warden needs a portable radio for better communication. "Perhaps someone will donate one or we'll have to buy one."

Tree Warden Marshall W. Pryce said, "There was a 'magnitude' of trees that went down, some are left hanging or are cracked. I believe there is in excess of 1,500 trees down. In my opinion, the very large trees went down because in August the trees still have their full foliage that dragged them down, plus it's been a dry summer and the tree roots didn't hold. If you look at most of the roots of the uprooted trees, they are very dry."

Mr. Pryce said that on Crystal Spring Road there were eight trees in a bundle that went down. As an afterthought Mr. Pryce said the town needs a bucket truck. Chairman DeCosta said "we'll keep it in mind and bring it up later in budget planning."

Health Agent Dale Barrows said there has been a steady stream of people dumping bushes and tree limbs at the landfill. There is no charge for brush. "If people are patient we will get around to picking up broken limbs curbside, ones that aren't too large."

Harbormaster Steven Mach deserves a great deal of credit for helping to get the boats out on Monday and keeping things moving, said Chairman DeCosta. "He and his assistants deserve our appreciation. Mr. Mach said, "The job now is getting the stranded boats off the wharves, clean up the area and get back to normal. We've had divers in the launching channel finding

Fire Chief Donald C. Wood said he felt there were too many people on one frequency; four departments with 20 or 30 trucks. He said something has to be done somewhere down the line; the Fire Department should be taken off the town band and put on a separate band. Other than that matter, the chief said everyone has cooperated well. "We've had the fire station open upstairs serving food to not only town workers but to the ComElectric crews and telephone company crews, anyone who is helping to clean up. The ladies from the Firefighters' Auxiliary have been working long hours bringing in food and serving it."

Fire Department Medical Officer Evelyn Ellis said the Old Rochester Regional High School Committee should be thanked for the cooperation of school employees in setting up the shelter. The custodian worked 24 hours a day keeping things working. The Red Cross has been wonderful, supplying food and other things. Some of the 200 people helped in the shelter came from New York, Maryland and Connecticut. Some people driving on the highway couldn't go any farther and were taken to the shelter.

"We fed the highway crews on Monday during the hurricane. The crews are being fed now at the fire station. Food has been donated by the Mattapoisett Inn and the Shipyard Galley and private citizens for which we are grateful."

Water/Sewer Superintendent William T. Nicholson said "We've been checking for leaks, and the worst place is at Angelica Beach where the houses have been blown away. We can't shut the water off to the beach as there are a few houses left standing." He urged people not to use hoses to wash down houses and cars because the pumps are on auxiliary power, eight pounds below normal. (As of Friday, the power was returned and pumps were working at regular capacity.)

Wire Superintendent Paul M. Kelley said there wasn't much he could do until Com-Electric does their repair work. He didn't believe there was too much breakage on town lines.

Town Mechanic John Bowman said, "We kept the generators going in the town hall, police station, sewer station, water pumping stations, town barn, other places in town. This kept the coffee pots going", he added.

Natural Resource Officer Brian Nunes said he helped keep cars off the wharves and kept traffic moving on Water Street. "The one way traffic system works excellent; the best you can do and not close off the area completely."

A comment made at the department meeting by Lewis Hammond Stone, "I thank all departments for their work. My wife and I are very proud to be residents of this town. I have one suggestion: Why not make memos and put notices around town for residents to reassure them things are being done such as pickup of garbage on the regular days and the restriction on using water while the auxiliary pumps are being used." Chairman DeCosta said this will be considered and thanked Mr. Stone for his comments.

Mr. DeCosta especially thanked Executive Secretary Carol Adams and Secretary Melody Mills for "holding the fort" at town hall and fielding all the questions and problems. "All the town hall employees have done double duty giving out permission passes to those authorized to go into the beach areas, plus raking debris in front of the town hall."

Comments overheard following the meeting: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maucione of Maryland who have had a summer home on Angelica Point for 20 years and were wiped out, said they liked it here in Mattapoisett and want to rebuild. "Our 2½ year old boy calls it 'my home', and we love it here", the Mauciones said.

A man was heard to say, "My wife and I had a quiet dinner by candlelight, the first time in many years."

Mattapoisett Emergency Meeting

BUILDING INSPECTOR SAYS RULES MUST BE FOLLOWED TO REBUILD

by VIRGINIA MORGAN

Due to the large crowd of about 300 concerned citizens attending the two-hour emergency meeting called by Mattapoisett Building Inspector Andrew J. Bobola and the Board of Selectmen Saturday, August 24th, to quell rumors about rebuilding after Hurricane Bob, the meeting site was moved to Old Hammondtown School.

Mr. Bobola began by saying, "Since Monday you people deserve credit for what you've done in your areas; you've pulled together to clean up." He said 90 percent of the areas have been viewed and the number of destroyed homes has risen to 81. He said to be honest it may take up to nine months to work through the permit process. He urged those with problems to go through a contractor. The damaged homes are in a Velocity Zone and rebuilt homes need to be designed by a structural engineer. He gave the elevations of critical areas: Cove Street (Angelica Beach), 18 to 21 feet above mean sea level; Howard Beach, 16 to 18 feet; Pico Beach, 20 feet; Harbor Drive, 16 feet; and Shore Drive, 16 to 21 feet to be determined by an engineer.

The inspector described when a house is condemned: cannot enter safely, no sanitary facilities, water or power, improper foundation. Questions ranged from when can we move a house and what is the process. The building department, board of health and conservation commission officials urged people to come to the town hall with particulars concerning their property and problems will be taken on a one-to-one basis.

The Board of Assessors' announcement on abatement held a shock for homeowners who had lost homes. Assessor Harvey Blanchette made known that fiscal 1991 assessments were made on January 1, 1990; fiscal 1992 assessments on January 1, 1991, which is before the damage done by the hurricane of August 19, 1991. Therefore, assessments and real estate taxes will be unaffected by the hurricane in the near future. No relief until fiscal 1993.

Health members Daniel Lee and Robert Field stressed its board is controlled by state regulations under Title 5. Mr. Lee announced that anyone concerned with their well water may come to town hall and get a bottle and bring in a sample which the board will have tested in a state approved lab at no charge. It was also announced that the state has granted on a temporary basis a burning permit for the landfill. The landfill will be open seven days a week as long as it is needed to bring in brush and trees at no charge.

William Straus of the Conservation Commission said there will be no fee under state emergency action to remove debris in wetlands that is a threat to public health. He said the commission meets every Tuesday and urged anyone with a problem to talk with them. Wells and septic systems rebuilt will have to be regulated by state codes to protect the shellfish in the bay. Mr. Field said there is a ban on swimming on town beaches and no shellfishing in Buzzards Bay.

State Representative John C. Bradford (R-Rochester) said he will convey to the Governor's office the information gathered here today and will urge that regulations be eased and/or facilitated as quickly as possible to speed the process. He added that any legislation on tax abatements would be on a local level basis.

Mr. Bobola said 15 state and federal agencies last Thursday viewed the damage, and "I feel sure these people will help us expedite permits." Mr. Bobola explained that 95 percent of foundations are not meeting any building code and when the foundation is not in code it has to be brought up to code; and that means elevating. "I know you don't like them, but in the event of another storm you will be happy you did."

Selectmen Chairman John N. DeCosta opened the meeting and noted these town workers have been working 16 to 18 hours a day; boats on property will be removed gradually, and he urged people to be patient if one is on their property. He noted there is information in the selectmen's office on a helicopter company that does boat removal.

A question: Can we build on small lots on Angelica Beach under the grandfather clause? Mr. Bobola said that within three years at the exact same footprint and height, but some septic systems will be problems because of their proximity to wells. He emphasized some situations should be handled on a one-to-one basis. When decisions

WARNING: Building Inspector Andrew J. Bobola issued a warning that unfortunately there are contractors who will take advantage of the situation and try to cheat people. "We have had complaints, mostly from elderly people, that contractors are offering to clean up their yard or do work, but only with cash up front. If anyone is approached in this manner, please contact the police department. This in no way reflects on the honest contractors doing business in town."

Sippican Choral Society

SINGERS WANTED

The Sippican Choral Society extends an invitation to membership to anyone who enjoys group singing, sings on key and can attend regular Monday evening rehearsals.

Organized in 1964, the group has performed at least two concerts annually, including works by many of the world's great choral composers (past and present) and lighter works from the musical theater. Peter West of Mattapoisett is returning as conductor.

The first concert of the season will be the annual Christmas Concert to be held on Sunday, December 8th, in the Wickenden Chapel at Tabor Academy in Marion. The featured theme this year, "Songs of Mary" with soloists and orchestra, will anchor the program, which also includes traditional carols and some lesser known Christmas music.

Sippican Choral Society concerts, especially the December concert, have become an accepted and expected part of the local community calendar.

Rehearsals resume on Monday, September

FINAL WEEK FOR MUSEUM EXHIBIT

This is the last week for you to visit the Museum and Carriage House to see the handwork of our predecessors which has withstood time and Hurricane Bob.

The quilts and baskets, as well as all of the regular exhibits, are still intact.

This is also the last chance to take a chance on the beautiful Steuben Glass apple we are raffling off. The drawing will take place on Saturday, August 31st, at 3:00 p.m.

Miss "Auntie" Amanda Estes, born August 19, 1891 in Fall River, celebrated her 100th birthday Sunday, August 18th surrounded by family and friends in the social lounge of the Mattapoisett Nursing Home.

The two Amandas - Photo, Virginia Morgan

Dressed in a pretty blue dress, Amanda was brought by wheelchair to a table decorated with yellow flowers, candles and a birthday cake. When her nephew, Albert Estes, said "Auntie you are 100 years old", her lips pursed in an expression of "Wow".

Amanda, a single lady, spent her working years as homemaker in her brother Albert's home in Fall River, tending her two nephews, Albert and Lee Estes. She graduated from Albert and his wife Doris of Swansea and Lee and his wife Janice of Mattapoisett helped to celebrate. In addition to the two nephews, Amanda has seven great-nephews, five great grandnephews and nieces. "We hold Auntie (as they all call her) very dear".

Albert said his "Auntie" celebrated her 90th birthday at his home and great grand-niece, Amanda, her namesake, was celebrating her first birthday.

A gift of a lap robe, designed with a family tree complete with names and dates, was a special gift made by a great nephew's wife, Maureen. A bouquet of red roses and other gifts were from family and friends. Cards of congratulations sent by President and Mrs. George Bush, were read by Selectmen Chairman John DeCosta.

Mr. DeCosta read, "On behalf of the Board of Selectmen of Mattapoisett, we congratulate you on your 100th birthday, and wish you good health and God's blessing. Since your arrival at the Mattapoisett Nursing Home on February 3, 1978, you have become a dear friend to the residents and staff." On a personal note, the chairman said "It has been my pleasure knowing you these past 13 years."

Although Amanda is frail, she is very alert at times, said her niece, Janice. She recuperated from a bout of pneumonia this

Congregational Church

MATTAPOISETT

For any system to survive there must be room for dissent. Only then will any group, whether it's a family, church or government, remain healthy. We are called to be those who speak out of season, who utter very unpopular words. We take Jesus as our example; the one who spoke clearly, not conveniently. "Countervailing Forces" will be the title of the sermon at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church this Sunday. The worship service begins at 10:00 o'clock in the morning and all are welcome.

Marion Art Center

"ABSTRACT EXPRESSIONS"

A two-person exhibition which opened at the Marion Center on Friday, August 23rd, continues until September 18th. Anne Bacon and M. Linn Bruce are the featured artists. Both paint in oil and watercolor using vibrant color in abstract, non-objective styles.

Mr. Bruce refers to his work as "referral abstracts" because of inclusion of suggestions from nature such as vertical tree movements and energetic brush work suggesting leaves or blossoms. Light through color is very much apparent, and the paintings are visual poems.

Ms. Bacon states that non-objective paintings are symbols; line, color, shape and texture are used to express ideas or emotions. She urges the viewer to look at the paintings as one would listen to music. The artist communicates with the viewer through composition, color and shared experiences.

Anne Bacon is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and studies with George Dergalis. She was an instructor at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston for ten years. Ms. Bacon lives in Lincoln, MA and spends summers in Marion.

Mr. Bruce resides in Putney, Vermont and studied art at Marlboro College and received his MFA at Goddard College. He taught

Letter to the Editor

I'm disappointed. There was a letter from a reader in the prior issue regarding JCSS show at ORR, but I had expected a great review, maybe even a picture of some of the cast members, but no such thing.

Several of us who saw the show couldn't get over the quality of the performances in that production and although the entire cast was extremely good as were all three of the principals, the one performer who really got to us was the one who played "Judas" - Kurt Guba. He was truly incredible and I doubt that anyone on a Broadway stage could have sung or acted out that role any better.

I hope if Kurt ever appears in any other local show that his name will appear in the ads in advance as I would like to see him again. Unfortunately when most local productions are advertised, they rarely give the names of the cast members until after the performances have been given.

I have found that there are several outstanding local performers, and there have been some wonderful productions given in Barn Gallery at Heritage Plantation. The show opened August 25th and runs until September 15th.

Peter Spataro of Hanover is the artist whose work will be on display. Mr. Spataro grew up in northeastern New York. He received his formal education at Barrington College, Bridgewater College, and Boston University. He has studied with many nationally known artists but attributes his extensive study with Edgar A. Whitney to be the single most influential factor in his decision to become a serious artist. Mr. Spataro paints in all media and paints a wide variety of subject matter including portrait and figure. His major focus as an artist, however, is painting the ever-changing moods and light of landscape in watercolor. He travels widely to capture on canvas and paper his emotional reaction to his subjects.

His recent awards include the following: The New England Watercolor Society, N.S.A.A. 1990, Cape Cod Art Association, First in Watercolor 1988-1989-1990, and Attleboro Museum, Best Watercolor 1988, to name a few. Mr. Spataro's printed work includes: Better Homes and Gardens, Cover 1990; The Boston Globe Magazine, Reproduction 1990; and Traditional Home, Cover 1990.

Mr Spataro's paintings have been shown in New England and National Shows. He has had many one-man and special invitational exhibitions.

A firm believer that the concepts and methods of creating art can be taught, Mr Spataro demonstrates and conducts workshops in watercolor throughout the northeast. The artist organizes many of his own workshops, but frequently teaches for art associations and other organizations.

A memorial stone in the Forest bears the inscription, "Stephen C.L. Delano, 1911-1983, This woodland was his". The land was given to PCWT in 1985 by his widow, Sarah R. Delano, to be preserved in a natural state. The Delano preserve is one of three natural areas owned by PCWT in Rochester. The others are the 10.5 acre Bruce Reservation and the 33 acre Lincoln P. Holmes Memorial Woods.

PCWT, a non-profit organization, also owns an additional 1,100 acres in 9 other towns in southeastern Massachusetts. The group continues to look for more land conservation opportunities, and invites area landowners and residents to become members. Members receive newsletters and invitations to guided walks, field trips, and lectures. PCWT also provides information to landowners about the potential tax and estate planning benefits of giving land or conservation restrictions to a qualified recipient such as PCWT. For more information call Alan Leggett at (617) 934-9018 or write to PCWT, P.O. Box 2282, Duxbury, MA 02331.

A Glove So Good It Leaves The Competition Petrified.

If you've ever played golf with an ordinary glove then you know how it goes.

First they get sweaty. Then they get stiff. And soon they get tossed.

But if you play with a Sta-Sof glove or its warm weather partner, the Sta-Sof Cooler – that's never going to happen.

Because Sta-Sof gloves dry soft and stay soft thanks to a remarkable WR200 tanning process developed exclusively for Foot-Joy by Pittards of England.

Round after round you can be sure of getting a true fit, a better grip, and superior feel.

Wear a Sta-Sof. Because a stiff glove is going to make the game a lot harder than it should be.
